Midland College Lady Chaps take on Collin County in First Round of Regionals

Lady Chaparral Basketball
March 6, 2013
Lubbock, TX

The Midland College Lady Chaps (23-7) will open play in the 2013 NJCAA Region V Tournament on Wednesday, March 6th @ 12:00 p.m. versus Collin County Community College (24-5). MC ended the regular season as the WJCAC Tri-Champions, but ended up with a #3 seed in the tournament after applying the tie-breaker formula.

The Region V Tournament will be played in Lubbock, TX at the Rip Griffin Center on the campus of Lubbock Christian University (March 6-9) and will feature the top four teams from the Western Conference (SPC, NMJC, MC, OC) and the top four teams from the Northern conference (Weatherford, Collin, Temple, McLennan) with the winner advancing to the Women's Division 1 National Tournament in Salina, KS (March 19-23).

Collin County is currently ranked #18 in the NJCAA rankings and joins #16 Weatherford College and #25 South Plains College as ranked teams in the regional tournament field. Collin's five losses came to Tyler Junior College, Temple College, Weatherford College, Ranger College and McLennan Community College.

The Lady Chaps enter the tournament having recently lost freshman post player, Femke Vaandrager (6'3", Groningen, Holland) to an ACL injury that required season-ending surgery. Sophomore guard Meghan Braeuer (5'7", Belton, TX) is also hobbled with a sore knee and is expected to play sparingly.

All Lady Chap tournament games will be live streamed at www.psblive.com. For live stats, scores and tournament brackets, go to www.njcaaregion5.com.

Go Lady Chaps!!
