Former MC softball player Elsa Apo was recently named the Lone Star Conference Female Athlete of the Year for 2012. Apo, a native of Ewa Beach, Hawaii played for the Lady Chaps from 2008-2010, earned the honor as a member of the Angelo State University team (Lone Star Conference, NCAA II).

Apo, a third baseman, just completed her final year of competition for the Rambelles and recorded a .424 batting average, an on-base percentage of .545 and drew 40 base on balls. She also had a .655 slugging percentage with 11 doubles and nine home runs, including 52 RBI.

During her two seasons at Midland College Apo batted .435 with 140 hits, including 41 doubles, three triples, nine home runs and 100 RBI. She was named NJCAA All-America and NFCA (National Fastpitch Coaches Association) All-America in 2010. She also earned NFCA All-America honors this season for ASU.

Apo is the second former Lady Chap softball player to earn LSC Female Athlete of the Year. Ex-Rambelle Michelle Hofmann also achieved the honor in 2004.
